Editorial

Dear Readers,

The Journal of Interdisciplinary Sciences (JIS) announces its publication of November 2019 issue. Publication of scientific and academic manuscripts in the Journal of Interdisciplinary Sciences (JIS) has led towards a wonderful journey. The consistency towards academic contribution has made it possible for the JIS to publish its Volume 3, Issue 2, 2019, in November.

This Volume 3, Issue 2, November 2019, contains research publications from different fields and perspectives contributing to different areas of integrative sciences covering, education, sociology, linguistics, gender studies, psychology, music, etc. The Journal of Interdisciplinary Sciences (JIS) has incorporated these manuscripts from various interdisciplinary areas into one platform and is available for everyone to download freely.

In this November 2019 issue, JIS has published research articles from various multi-interdisciplinary subjects. JIS is gaining grounds in academia through contribution in interdisciplinary sciences and thus craving towards generating its value by creating an academic value-based community among the reviewers, authors and readers through enriching the beautiful minds towards intelligent minds. The Journal of Interdisciplinary Sciences (JIS) is an open access platform, focusing towards attainment of value-based community within and outside the academic periphery. The Journal of Interdisciplinary Sciences (JIS) offers free academic services to all authors for submission and publishing and download access to all the interested readers.

Our next Volume 4, issue 1 will be published in May 2020 as scheduled, and we invite scholars from various multi-interdisciplinary disciplines to submit their research and scientific papers.

Let us join and collaborate together to ENRICH the BEAUTIFUL MINDS
TOWARDS INTELLIGENT MINDS
