Editorial

Dear Readers,

We wish to announce the publication of Volume 5, Issue 1, May 2021. In this issue of May 2021, manuscripts were included from different disciplines. The papers that have been included in this issue are from multi-disciplinary areas and affiliated to different universities from different countries. As interdisciplinary sciences, the Journal of Interdisciplinary Sciences (JIS) makes every effort to present the paper of high quality, which can also create a high demand of author(s) effort towards academic collaboration. On this note, the JIS editorial reviews and initial screening takes a rigorous approach where the initial stage of academic collaboration begins between the corresponding author and the editors. It is a time consuming task but worthy to learn. This is a type of learning that JIS initiates through the journal's vision "Enriching Beautiful Minds towards Intelligent Minds"

Our next issue will be published in November 2021 for which we invite researchers, managers, leaders, scientists, students and others for paper submission. The call for paper submission is also announced in the journal's announcement portal <http://journalofinterdisciplinarysciences.com/announcement/>

The Journal of Interdisciplinary Sciences (JIS) is an open access, which offers free submissions, free publication and open access to download its published research paper from the journal's website <http://journalofinterdisciplinarysciences.com/>

It is recommended that all author(s) submitting their manuscript to JIS are advised to read the author guidelines from the journal website
